TRI RAIL

FIRM EXPECTED TO DOWNSIZE PLANS FOR BOCA DEPOT 'VILLAGE'

By Dale M. King

CITY EDITOR

Change is apparently in the works for a proposed development adjacent to the Boca Raton Tri-Rail station. Yamato Road Joint Ventures LLC, which hoped to create a million square foot "transit village" next to the depot, is apparently rethinking the plan — in particular, the size.

County receives $2.4 million in security funding

By John Johnston

MANAGING EDITOR

Some $2.4 million in Homeland Security funding — about 24 percent of the regional funds available — have been awarded to Palm Beach County under the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Urban Area Security Initiative (UASI).

Palm Beach County commissioners' acceptance of the funding extends the county's involvement in the program through June 30, 2009, commissioners said.

Palm Beach County is part of Fort Lauderdale area UASI — and actually receives its funding under the program from the City of Miramar, designated when the UASI was established in 2004 as the region's UASI fiscal agent. The specific UASI allocations were:

- $698,600 to the county, to fund fire, health, emergency management, and other approved anti-terrorism activities.
- $698,600 to the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office (PBSO) to fund direct law enforcement activities
- $985,887 to fund regional security projects, in concert with other counties and cities.

The UASI program is part of a five-part package of programs that, according to the DHS, are designed "to enhance the ability of state, local, and tribal governments to prevent, protect against, respond to, and recover from terrorist attacks and other disasters."

The DHS core programs are:

- Homeland Security Grant Program

1. State Homeland Security Program (SHSP)
 2. Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASI)
 3. Metropolitan Medical Response System
 4. Citizen Corps Program (CCP)
 - SHSP Supplemental Guidance for Tribal Applicants
 - Nonprofit Security Grant Program (NSGP)
 - Operation Stonegarden Grant Program (OPSG)
 - Regional Catastrophic Planning Grant Program (RCPGP)
- According to DHS, "Together, these grants may fund a wide range of preparedness activities, to include planning, organization, equipment purchase, training, exercises, and management and administration costs. These five programs support objectives outlined in the National Preparedness Guidelines and related national preparedness doctrine, such as the national incident management system, national response plan, and the national infrastructure protection plan."

Commissioners said future UASI funding would be "based on a competitive need process," and that no county funds are involved.

County approves CDBGextension; PBSOroof rental with Marriot

By John Johnston
MANAGING EDITOR

Palm Beach County commissioners have approved a five-month extension of an agreement with the City of Delray Beach for the expenditure of $252,500 in 2005 Disaster Recovery Initiative Program funds.

Commissioners said the funds come from Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program, and were approved for the extension of Mango Drive and SW 7th Avenue in Delray Beach. The time extension is needed, commissioners said, because of delays in obtaining rights-of-way permissions.

PBSO Equipment

Separately in Delray, and on behalf of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office (PBSO), commissioners have approved an agreement with Tallmar, Inc., for the placement of communication equipment on the roof of the Marriott Residence Inn on East Atlantic Avenue. A separate agreement was also approved providing for PBSO's financial responsibility for rent and the equipment itself.

Commissioners said the 10-year agreement permits the installation of radar and other miscellaneous communication equipment "which will enhance maritime security and improve communication between local law enforcement agencies."

The Marriott will charge an annual rent of $4,000, commissioners said, and which will be increased annually according to the Consumer Price Index. In turn, the county has the option to terminate the agreement for any reason with 90 days notice to the Marriot. In turn, the Marriot has the right to terminate upon 180 days notice and payment of an $8,000 early termination fee, said commissioners.

Delray selects artist to create First Night 2009 button

FROM STAFF REPORTS

First Night® Delray Beach has selected artist Chrisanthy Vargo to complete the design for the First Night 2009 button and poster.

The poster will be used to promote First Night 2009. The button will serve as admittance to all events on the evening of New Year's Eve 2009.

Vargo received formal training from the Rhode Island School of Design and the Moore College of Art in Philadelphia. She received her Bachelor of Fine Arts from the Tyler School of Art at Temple University in Philadelphia.

She has worked in the fields of sculpture, pottery, jewelry design, model making and illustrating for more than 25 years.

Vargo has participated in several local art exhibitions, including Palm Beach County's Art in Public Places current exhibition, Local Treasures. Her work is on permanent display as part of the Hypoluxo Scrub Natural Area Entranceway in Hypoluxo.

Bones found in Boca are from human who was shot, police say

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Bones discovered Friday in a wooded section of Boca Raton are from a human being, police said, and the victim was apparently shot.

Public Information Officer Sandra Boonenberg said a preliminary examination conducted by the Palm Beach Medical Examiner's Office "has concluded that the remains are human, and had been there for quite some time. An injury to one of the bones, and a hole in a piece of clothing recovered, leads investigators to believe the victim was shot."

A worker from the city's Parks & Recreation Department found the skeletal remains Friday morning while cutting grass in the undeveloped area near 1800 West Palmetto Park Road. The area is frequented by the homeless, Boonenberg said.

She noted that investigators are looking to the homeless population to assist in identifying the victim. Anyone having information about the incident is asked to call Detective Juan Carlos Pijuan at (561) 338-1387.

Boca family remembers son on 9-11

SEEKS USED CELL PHONES FOR OTHER SOLDIERS

By Nicol Jenkins
SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

For many, September 11, even seven years later, is a day that will never be forgotten. For the Wolfer family of Boca Raton, the day also marks a harsh reminder of a son lost while protecting our country.

Major Stuart Adam Wolfer was killed April 6, 2008, while serving in Iraq. On that fateful day, he was working out in a fitness center in the Green Zone, which is a non-combat area, and a mortar attack took his life. He was only 36 and leaves behind a loving family, wife Lee and three daughters, Lillian, Melissa, and Isadora.

That Boca family said they never expected Stuart would pass before his time, especially since they believed he was in a safe zone.

"We thought our son was safe. He was a Major and not in combat," said his father Leonard Wolfer. "Not a day passes that we don't think of him and try not to be sad."

His sister Beverly Wolfer-Nerenberg added, "His life did not end April 6, he will be remembered forever."

Boca Raton Community High School recently honored Wolfer's memory and also remembered others who lost lives on 9-11. The school held an assembly with performances from the NJROTC and chorus to honor the 7th anniversary.

"It was a beautiful ceremony," said Boca High principal Geoff McKee. "We as a nation have turned our greatest tragedy into one of our greatest triumphs, with our country uniting."

Soldier Remembered

The family says Stuart will be remembered as a loving father, brother, son and friend. They have received over 500 letters and even college donations for his children's education.

"He had special friendships around the world," said his sister.

His parents describe Stuart as a soldier who had many friends and always gave 110 percent. "There was nothing he couldn't do, and he brought out the best in everyone," said his father, Leonard.

His mother Esther added, "He had such a warm smile and would look at you directly when he spoke to you."

Help Other Soldiers

In the meantime, the Wolfer family has been helping other soldiers who are serving overseas. Esther has been spearheading the project, Cell Phones for Soldiers, a national organization that collects used cell phones and then sends calling cards to soldiers so they can talk to loved ones.

"With Stuart being an officer, we were very fortunate to be able to talk to him through email and phone, but many families of combat soldiers do not have those advantages," said Esther.

The Wolfer family hopes locals will contribute to the cause and drop off used cell phones to help soldiers.

Boca High School NJROTC has started a campaign at the school to collect cell phones. NJROTC Lieutenant Commander Ken Bingham says the students have already col-

County approves inland port south of Big Lake

PORT OF PALM BEACH LANDLOCKED

By John Johnston
MANAGING EDITOR

While not exactly sure where to put it, Palm Beach County commissioners unanimously support the creation of a so-called "inland port" somewhere near South Bay in the Glades area.

The more than 3,500 acre facility would employ more than 3,000 persons, and proponents said would solidify Palm Beach County as the link between both East and West coast ports, and in turn, the regions rail lines and roads.

Hundreds of Glades area residents — many of whom are unemployed, or who will be unemployed when US Sugar completes sale of its land to the State of Florida -- showed up last week to lobby for the construction of the inland port.

"We want jobs, so that we can take care of our families," said one man, echoing the sentiments of many who spoke.

Creation of an inland port is actually an idea of the Port of Palm Beach itself. The port is landlocked, and doesn't have "adequate physical expansion opportunities," according to a County Overall Economic Development Committee (OEDP) report.

"Terminal size constraints are impacting its ability to attract new port business to Palm Beach County," the report said, adding: "An inland port facility....would serve the Port as a direct extension of its waterside terminal."

In turn, and at the Port's request, the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) agreed to conduct a study to determine the feasibility of such a facility, "providing a hub of port-related operations and storage facilities, with truck and rail connections to the region's seaports, with truck access to regional markets," the ODEP report said.

The study in turn revealed five site possibilities in South and Central Florida — three of which are in Palm Beach County, including the Glades site.

And despite environmental concerns that putting such a facility south of the big lake would interfere with the ongoing Everglades restoration project, commissioners voted in favor of moving forward.

With the 5-2 vote, commissioners directed staff to initiate the process of amending the comprehensive plan to create an industrial overlay district along the US 27 corridor south of Lake Okeechobee.

The Port is an independent taxing district, with a five-member board of commissioners elected at large by voters within the district. An Executive Director and professional staff of 49 full time employees administer the Port. And now it's up to those directors to decide whether the Glades area site is the best one of the five to best serve the Port's long-term objectives.

They may call it "life care". But, will their claims hold water?

Don't be misled. Some retirement communities may claim to offer life care, but take a closer look. The long-term care they provide could be limited — or even strictly pay-as-you-go, with no guarantees — even after incurring a substantial entrance fee.

With the ACTS Life Care Program you're assured a real continuum of care, from residential living to assisted living to skilled care ... for life. And your monthly fee won't increase as a result of the need for a higher level of care for you or your spouse. Resort-style amenities, maintenance-free living and care you can count on, should it ever be needed, for as long as it's needed. That's real peace of mind.

TAKING STOCK

Murphy’s Law Figures in Buying Mutual Funds

The staff and management of the Boca Raton News don’t necessarily agree with the assessments and/or subsequent conclusions reached by Malcolm Berko.

Dear Mr. Berko:
Until the middle of 2006, Legg Mason’s Value Fund, the Mublenkamp Fund and Oakmark Select had all been big winners with 10-year average returns in excess of 12 percent. In the past two years, these funds have been real laggards. But what’s different about there funds is that they are the only mutuals with portfolios of fewer than 40 stocks when all others have hundreds of issues in their portfolios. So, I’m thinking of investing $10,000 in each and request your analysis of them. Should I buy them now, should I buy a small piece of each now and more at later intervals, or should I decline to invest in one or any of them? I expect to hold each fund for at least 6 to 10 years. I’ve had good success in the past buying stocks that have been beaten down and holding them long-term till they move back up. But I’ve never done it with funds. Have they reached bottom or do you think it will take more time before they go back up?

E.B., Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

Dear E.B.:
I’m familiar with Isaac Newton’s observations in his “Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica” saying anything that goes up must come down. But I’m more concerned with Sean Murphy’s law and its relationship to Newton’s law: “When something comes down, it won’t come down where you expect unless you don’t expect it to, then, at that point, it will.” Albert Einstein addressed the phenomena in his discussions of quantum mechanics.
Bill Miller runs Legg Mason’s Value Trust Inc., which is down 31 percent this year. I don’t know how much more it will fall. Miller reduced his portfolio from 48 to 31 positions to raise cash for ongoing redemptions. Legg Mason Value Trust (LMVTX-$40.86) has bettered the S&P 500 for 15 consecutive years. But this year positions in United Health Services, Freddie Mac, Citigroup, Merrill Lynch, American international Group, Expedia and Quest, all down more than 40 percent, seem to have done him in. His other positions look like who’s who on the Blue Chip Index (Amazon, JP Morgan, Aetna, eBay, Sears, GE, IBM, Time Warner, Cisco, Texas Instruments, etc) are no-brainers and will run back up only when the economy turns around. But, according to Murphy, that will happen when it is least expected to. So nibble now. It is a no-load fund and the minimum investment is $1,000.

The Muhlenkamp Fund (MUHLX-$52.76), off 26 percent this year and 10 percent in 2007. Run by Ron Muhlenkamp, it has 40 positions and an average annual portfolio turnover of just 22 percent. During the last 19 years, this large-cap value fund has had four down years. Muhlenkamp positions investments in housing stocks, United Health Services and American International Group really bombed this year. So he’s recently added Chevron, Boeing, Caterpillar Tractor and Exxon to his group, plus a sprinkling of tech issues, all of which he believes will rebound soon. However, Muhlenkamp has put his money where his mouth is with $10 million of his personal cash. This fund will head back up only when there’s a strong turnaround in the manufacturing sector. I don’t see that happening for at least 12 to 16 months. MUHLX is no-load and the minimum investment is $1,500. Some would advise waiting until January to begin taking a position. But Murphy suggests that whenever you buy a fund could be the wrong time, and I think I agree with Sean.

Bill Nygren’s Oakmark Fund (OAKLX-$23.42) owns only 20 issues so each position really counts. Nygren got scorched in Pulte Homes, Washington Mutual and Discovery Holdings, earning a minus-24 percent return for the last 12 months. But this year has been boosted by his canny positions in YUM Brands, McDonalds, Western Union and H&R Block. This no-load fund has a 10-percent portfolio turnover and since inception in 1998 has only had two down years. I like OAKLX and I’m impressed that Nygren has a large personal cash position in his fund. His large investment in media stocks and consumer services might give the portfolio a boost this year and next. In this instance I believe the apple fell kind of close to the tree, so I would be comfortable owning shares of OAKLX right now.

However you have failed to consider the Fairholme Fund (FAIRX-$31.40). Even though it’s headquartered in Miami, this is one fund I would not bet against. Messrs Berkowitz, Pitkowsky and Trauner, managers of this 22 stock portfolio fund have handily bested the DOW and S&P since its inception in late 1999. While FAIRX may lag the market in volatile climates, its minus 5.2 percent return vs. the S&P’s minus 13.5 percent (2008) is indicative of its of its superb performance in a Bear market. FAIRX has a 28 percent representation in financial stocks but you won’t find mainstream issues like Fannie Mae, Lehman, AIG or Citigroup. FAIRX uses the Buffet philosophy to select stocks (strong cash flow, solid assets and superior management) and its portfolio is 25 percent cash. Even though FAIRX hasn’t crashed like MUHLX, LMUTX and OAKLX I’d own this Miami, Florida no-load fund in a heartbeat and forget about the other three. It seems that the laws of Mr. Newton and Mr. Murphy are applicable here.

Please address your financial questions to Malcolm Berko, P.O. Box 1416, Boca Raton, FL 33429 or e-mail him at malber@comcast.net.

Judge rules Boca’s approval of townhouses complied with law

By Dale M. King
CITY EDITOR

An administrative law judge has ruled that the Boca Raton City Council did not break Florida statutes when it approved a 211-unit townhouse on the western edge of the Boca Teeca Condominium complex, and also “amended the traffic element of the plan” affecting NW Second Avenue, which runs through the complex off Yamato Road, according to documents filed in the Division of Administrative Hearings, State of Florida.

The ruling of Judge Donald Alexander is not yet final, court officials said. It still must be approved by the state Department of Community Affairs, which had already reviewed the townhouse plan and given the green light to the city’s action.

The suit was filed against the city of Boca Raton and the DCA, with MCZ/Centrum Florida V as an intervenor.
The matter ended up in court when Save Boca Green Space, an environmental group that had fought to scuttle the townhouse project and other amenities proposed by the developer, Dennis Taback of MCZ/Centrum Florida V — owner of the Ocean Breeze Golf & Country Club at Boca Teeca — filed a petition for formal administrative hearing alleging that the two amendments were “not consistent with the requirements” of several sections of Florida law.

Save Boca Green Space alleged that the council had no right to change the designation of 29.58 acres of land from recreational and open space use to a residential medium district to make way for the 211 townhomes.

The group also claimed that the change in the transportation plan for NW Second Avenue “established a new level of service” for the road.
At several hearings on the Ocean Breeze development, city officials said NW Second Avenue is “a constrained road,” not subject to widening. Those opposed to the project said the road could not handle the additional traffic from the townhouse complex.

After a number of hearings and a review of the allegations, Administrative Judge Alexander ruled that the petitioner “has failed to establish beyond fair debate that the amendments are not in compliance. Therefore, the plan amendments adopted are in compliance.”
He has asked the DCA to affirm his ruling.

FAU sends English language books to Iraq, Armenia

By Dale M. King
CITY EDITOR

Florida Atlantic University Libraries have redirected thousands of English language books that are not needed by its library users to Armenia and Iraq. University officials said this will enable librarians in those nations to augment collections and offer a larger variety of titles to readers.
The library’s effort, which now includes a network of southeast Florida libraries as partners and an Iraqi university as a recipient, began after Dr. William Miller, dean of University Libraries at FAU, returned from Armenia following the September 2001 terrorist attacks.
The visit was Miller’s first of three on behalf of the U.S. Department of State Speaker/Consultant Program to do outreach with Armenian librarians.
“Before 1991, books to Soviet Bloc countries were provided free of charge centrally from Moscow, and of course, they were all in Russian,” said Miller. “After the fall of the Soviet Union, the book shipments stopped, and the countries had no money to purchase books. By 2001, the libraries had basically acquired no books for a decade and also had little or nothing in English.”
Miller and his staff at the S.E. Wimberly Library on FAU’s Boca Raton campus began the project by setting aside appropriate books among duplicates from the gifts program. The first books shipped were mainly science and technology texts donated by an area publisher of scientific research manuals. Miller occasionally tossed in books from his personal collection. “The emphasis was always on current, quality material, either in science or in history, literature and other areas of great interest,” he said.

After the project got underway, Miller and Tom Sloan, executive director of the Southeast Florida Library Information Network (SEFLIN), who has also visited Armenia many times as a consultant for the State Department, collaborated on how to provide ongoing assistance to Armenian libraries.
SEFLIN, which includes FAU Libraries among its membership of more than 300 libraries, assumed the project, named it the SEFLIN Gifts Book Program and began shipping books to Armenia in January 2006. The project’s name has since been changed to the SEFLIN Gift Library Materials Program.
About 3,500 of the books shipped by SEFLIN have been academic titles, while about 3,200 have been books designated for grade schools and public libraries. More than 100 titles on the study of the English language have been donated to language institutes.

FAU Libraries have given at least 55 percent of the books for the effort over the past two years. In addition, Lynn University, Palm Beach Community College, Lighthouse Point Library and members of the S.E. Florida Independent School Libraries Consortium have donated books, microfilm, videotapes and other library materials.
Amed Demirhan, library director of the University of Kurdistan Hawler Library, an English language university in Erbil, Iraq, said he has noticed a change in his students since his library began receiving the books. “The connectivity gives our students the feeling that they are part of the global community and not isolated anymore,” said Demirhan, a former Broward County Library employee, who requested the books before returning home to Iraq.

FIRM EXPECTED TO DOWNSIZE PLANS FOR BOCA DEPOT ‘VILLAGE’

By Dale M. King
CITY EDITOR

Change is apparently in the works for a proposed development adjacent to the Boca Raton Tri-Rail station.

Yamato Road Joint Ventures LLC, which hoped to create a million square foot “transit village” next to the depot, is apparently re-thinking the plan – in particular, the size.

City officials have twice adopted strong resolutions saying the million square foot plan is much too large for that spot. Coincidentally, because of the change of administration earlier this year, one resolution came about through former Mayor Steven Abrams, the other under current Mayor Susan Whelchel.

Peter Sachs of Sachs Sax Caplan, a Boca law firm representing Yamato Road Joint Ventures LLC, notified the City Council earlier this month that “Mike Langton and Tom Gustafson of Yamato Road LLC are proposing changes to the Yamato Road Tri-Rail development proposal.”

Sachs’ letter said the changes will result in “less mass,” be “more likely to improve local traffic conditions” and be “more consistent with the city’s effort to develop multi-modal transportation districts.” The letter also says the changes are “more likely to create a basis for passenger rail travel in Boca Raton on the FEC (Florida East Coast) corridor when FEC passenger services are planned and implemented for other South Florida areas.”

Two Meetings

The letter proposes a meeting between Yamato Road Joint Ventures LLC and the City Council Sept. 22 – four days before the firm will make a similar presentation to the South Florida Regional Transportation Authority, which operates Tri-Rail.

Earlier this year, SFRTA chose Yamato Road Joint Ventures’ plan as its preferred development choice over a second one submitted by Boca developers Malcolm Butters and Ned Siegel, which exactly fits the zoning on that plat.

A follow-up letter from Sachs said Butters will be present at the Sept. 22 meeting.

Mayor Susan Whelchel said she knows no specifics about the plans to be presented at the meeting, but has “two impressions. We have unanimously voted twice not to allow the development. Obviously, they got the message.”

Her second impression is that the firm “knows we are committed to public transportation” and may tailor its proposal to that pledge.

Initially, Yamato Road LLC wanted to create a transit “village” with a hotel, apartments, shops and offices. The firm’s $200 million proposal included a 150-room hotel, nearly 200 workforce housing units, 90,000 square feet of offices, 55,000 square feet of shops and parking garages with 1,731 spaces.

But the council twice rejected that plan by resolution, saying the zoning would not allow such massive development. While Tri-Rail owns the six-acre parcel near the train station, the city controls the zoning.

Regarding the upcoming meeting, Jack Stephens, deputy executive director of SFRTA issued a statement to the Boca Raton News: “The SFRTA Governing Board has made it clear that the involvement of the development team is with the local government. The site is very important to us and we look forward to the creation of a project that will benefit both the city of Boca Raton and our passengers.”

Lynn Cancer Institute adds non-invasive treatment apparatus

ONLY HOSPITAL IN SOUTH FLORIDA TO OFFER IT

By Dale M. King
CITY EDITOR

The Eugene M. & Christine E. Lynn Cancer Institute at Boca Raton Community Hospital has acquired apparatus to offer patients fast, accurate, non-surgical treatments for cancer and other conditions in the brain, head, neck and body.

That means Boca Raton Community Hospital is the only medical facility in South Florida with the Novalis Tx™ platform for image-guided radiosurgery with Rapid Arc.™ “Treatments are delivered from outside the body to destroy tumors or ablate targeted abnormalities without an incision, so patients treated in this way can avoid hospitalization, lengthy recovery periods and many of the complications often associated with conventional surgery,” said Phillip Smith, MD, medical director of the Lynn Cancer Institute.

Novalis Tx,™ he said, incorporates advanced imaging, treatment planning and treatment delivery technologies from Varian Medical Systems and BrainLAB, enabling doctors to carry out highly precise, non-invasive image-guided radiosurgery procedures quickly and precisely.

He said Rapid Arc radiotherapy technology is a major advancement from Varian Medical Systems that improves dose conformity while significantly shortening treatment times.

Rapid Arc, he said, delivers treatments two to eight times faster than the fastest dynamic treatments today with increased precision.

Image-guided radiosurgery (IGRS) involves quickly delivering precisely focused, high-energy radiation to a localized area to destroy tumors throughout the body that often cannot be addressed by conventional surgery, including some malignant and benign lesions, brain metastases, arteriovenous malformations and other functional conditions such as trigeminal neuralgia.

“Radiosurgery is an outpatient procedure and patients typically walk out of the hospital to resume their normal activities that same day,” said the doctor. “Novalis Tx™ offers us unparalleled image guidance tools and treatment beam sculpting capabilities.”

A high definition multi-leaf collimator shapes the treatment beam so it matches the shape of the tumor from every angle. Novalis Tx can be used to deliver frameless radiosurgery treatments, a more patient-friendly alternative to other systems that require immobilization with a head ring that attaches to the skull.

Regardless of the type of treatment, the Novalis Tx can deliver it very quickly, said Dr. Smith, so patients spend little time immobilized on the treatment table. “Fast treatments are, of course, easier on the patient. It’s hard for anyone to hold still for long periods of time and movement can compromise treatment accuracy.”

Doctors at the Lynn Cancer Institute plan to use Novalis Tx to offer non-invasive for a diverse spectrum of conditions, including spine, lung, liver and prostate cancer.

“With Novalis Tx,” said Dr. Smith, “we’re entering a new age of medicine and making surgery without an incision a reality for the people of our community.”

‘Walks for Peace’ in Boca, Delray, Lake Worth

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Citizens of Boca Raton, Delray Beach and Lake Worth will join others from around the country for a nationwide “Walk for Peace” Sept. 20. The local component will be held in the three Palm Beach County communities.

This is the third annual walkathon sponsored by The Peace Alliance, a nonprofit, non-partisan citizen action organization leading a national grassroots campaign to create a U.S. Department of Peace and Nonviolence.

“We have to get serious about reducing and preventing violence,” said Kathy Kidd, the Peace Alliance National Field Director. “We can’t afford not to.”

The “Walks for Peace” will take place sequentially beginning in Boca Raton at Sanborn Square at 8 a.m. and will continue in Delray Beach at 11 a.m. at Veterans Park and will end at Barton Park in Lake Worth at 3 p.m.

The event will culminate in Lake Worth, at the South Shore Tavern and Bar with a fundraiser starting at 6 p.m.

Walks are being organized in 23 states, including Florida, California, Texas and New York.

For information, call (561) 674-2896.

Man charged with raping elderly Delray woman

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Delray Beach police have arrested a homeless man for allegedly raping a 79-year-old woman in April.

At a recent news conference, police said the suspect, Oscar Prentice Rowell, 50, has a history of sexual crimes dating back to 1975. Charges stemming from the April incident, police said, include armed burglary, sexual battery and false imprisonment.

Police said DNA evidence collected at the woman’s home linked Rowell to a break into her house and the assault that followed. According to reports, the suspect allegedly raped the woman, bound her to the bed with one of her bras and raped her a second time before leaving in her car. Prior to leaving, he ripped the phone out of the wall, said police.

The Palm Beach County Sheriff’s Office laboratory came up with the DNA match. The suspect has been taken to the county jail where he continues to be held without bail, said police.

Cut-a-thon to benefit child with leukemia

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Wild Hare on St. Andrew’s in Boca Raton will host a Redken-sponsored cut-a-thon Sunday, Sept. 21, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. to benefit 3-year-old Owen Fincher, a young friend of Wild Hare who was recently diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia.

Haircuts (shampoo and cut only) will be $35 for women, $25 for men and $15 for children under 12. No appointments are required, and services will be on a first come, first served basis.

Joining forces with Wild Hare are three additional South Florida Salons: Michael Angelo Salon & Spa, Sanctuary Spa and Mojo barbershop.

“One hundred percent of the proceeds will be donated to Owen’s family to help pay the mounting hospital bills,” said owners Joanne and Bobby Amoroso. “Wild Hare on St. Andrew’s is excited, and very proud to help little Owen and his family by supporting this cause,” added Jo-Ann Roy, co-owner of Wild Hare on St. Andrew’s, and a close friend of Owen.

Wild Hare is located at 21210 St. Andrews Blvd., Boca Raton.

Korean students in Boca

(Special to the News)

As the 2008-2009 school year begins, Grandview Preparatory School in Boca Raton welcomes five students from Korea that will participate in this year’s international home stay program. The school arranges for visiting students to live with Grandview families in school-owned town homes located in Boca Raton. Visitors this year are, from left, Young Jin Choi, Seo Jin Choi, So Mang Choi, Cheon Kyung Sung, and Jin Kyu Kim. “Grandview prides itself on offering a curriculum with a global vision, and the international home stay program provides a great cross-cultural interaction,” said Joe Collins, director of admissions for Grandview. Since the program began three years ago, more than 20 students from France, China and Korea have enrolled.

HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Sept. 16, 2008:

You could be more "in charge" of your life this year than in the past. You seem to have an endless supply of creativity and imagination. Others often tap into your thoughts, as they love the ideas that pop out of left field. You also might be prone to wild risks more often than not. If you are single, you definitely will be greeting romance in the next few months or year. This person could be very special. If you are attached, you see opportunities to be wild, but you invite your sweetie along. Your relationship will benefit. ARIES relates closely to you. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES
March 21-April 19
★★★★ Investigate and go past a problem. Understand and move forward. Extremes hit, no matter what you do or try. Stay clear and maintain a high profile. You might need to screen calls and be selective about your priorities. Tonight: A must appearance.

TAURUS
April 20-May 20
★★★ Know when you need to pull back. In this whirlwind of happenings, you might be overly charged. Right now, resolution is not possible, but what is wise is to gather all the facts and then act. Tonight: Think rather than act. Bounce an idea off a trusted associate.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20
★★★★★ You might want or need to think through a situation more carefully. Someone might be tossing a lot of information on your plate. Lighten up about a concern, and do not feel as if you must have answers. Tonight: Where your friends are.

CANCER
June 21-July 22
★★★★★ Others look to you for answers and ideas. You easily could feel overwhelmed or as if you have nothing more to offer. In truth, you do. Simply slow down, and pick and choose your battles. Tonight: Make a must appearance.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22
★★★★★ Evaluate and think rather than jump in. Too many offers might come in from left field. Pace yourself, and know that you do need to make choices. Trust your instincts, and you will come out on top. Tonight: Think as if you were looking in rather than being a part of.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22
★★★★★ A partner could ask for a lot, and you will deliver at least that much in the near future. So many ideas keep popping in your mind, you could be overwhelmed. Perhaps you should carry a notepad. Tonight: Relate on a one-on-one level.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22
★★★★★ Defer to others, even if you do not feel overwhelmed. Much happens quickly. It might take a while to land. Investigate an offer, and decide to act on it in the near future. Be direct with someone you care about. Tonight: Sort through invitations.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21
★★★★★ Easy works, though you could be overwhelmed by all that you hear and the many calls you get. Focus on doing one job at a time, refusing to take on too much, too fast. Think positively, and you might be surprised by all that you get done. Tonight: Fit in a brisk walk.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21
★★★★★ You could wonder what to do in order to make the most of a financial opportunity; however, if you are spending too much to make this happen, it could be a bad investment. Let your creativity flourish. Tonight: Let some fun filter in.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19
★★★★★ Your optimism and energy meet. You need to deal with basics. Issues involving real estate and property could filter in. You might be thinking about how much easier it would be to have a home office. Tonight: You don't need to go far.

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18
★★★★★ Speak your mind. You are ahead of your game and understand much more than others think. You are positive and upbeat. Do not be surprised where a conversation goes. Allow feelings to flow. Be vulnerable. Tonight: Talk up a storm.

PISCES
Feb. 19-March 20
★★★★★ Before you spend, make sure you will be happy with the end result. You will be much happier if you are careful. A meeting might be overwhelming, but very much good news. Treat a friend or co-worker to lunch. Tonight: Put yourself on a strict budget.

THE HAPPINESS ANSWER™

Good problems to have

From the time I entered kindergarten until my sophomore year in college I played football. It was my passion. And to get bigger and stronger, I began to lift weights the summer before my freshman year in high school. Over the next six years I worked out regularly. And I worked out hard. I put on muscle and I gained strength, and it came as a result of thousands of hours of training. It was not easy, but it was worth it.

Too big?
One thing that always made me laugh during my training years was when someone who was not exercising regularly would tell me: "I don't lift weights because I don't want to get too big." I would just smile whenever someone said that to me. They had no idea that the problem they envisioned would not happen overnight. In fact, it would take more time and effort than they could ever have imagined. There may be other reasons not to lift weights, but "getting too big" is not one of the realistic ones. "Getting too big" is what I call a "good problem to have." Your journey to bigness would involve regularly going to the gym, eating right, sleeping well and getting healthy. And if your muscles really did start popping out of your gym clothes, you could use the mirror to guide you on how much you needed to ease up on the weights.

Good problems
There are problems we definitely don't want, and there are problems that are good to have. We just need to look at the good problems differently.
Too in-demand?
I love being with my wife,

Dawn, and my little girls, Eliana and Ariela. You can guess that I prefer not to travel more than I have to for business. So, I catch myself saying, "I don't want to be a 'road warrior' who measures his success by the number of speaking engagements he has all over the country. I don't want to be speaking all the time." What is this? It's a "good problem to have." What's a better way to look at it? I want my writing and speaking to be so much in demand that I can choose which of all those available speaking dates I want to accept and which ones I can say no to (even though I am grateful for all the opportunities).
Too popular?
Here's another one of mine. I prefer to spend my professional time writing, researching, speaking, recording and filming my work. So, I find myself saying, "I don't want to spend all my time corresponding on the social and business networking sites like Facebook, MySpace, and Linked In." What is this? It's a "good problem to have." Here's a better way to look at it: I want my columns, books, workbooks, CD programs, DVDs and products to make such a positive impact on people's lives that I am invited to connect with more and more people from all around the world. And you can bet that given all of this interest in my work, I would make sure that I had a strategy to communicate with everyone.
Too much money?
And here's one I hear a lot of people saying: "I don't want to make a lot of money if it means sacrificing the good things in my life." What is this? Yes, it's another good problem to have. Here's another way to look at it: I want to be so good at what I love doing that people will pay me handsomely to do it. I'll then continue to do what I love, and I'll have all the time I want to spend with family and friends.

Your good problems
Now, what do you say negatively about the things that could possibly make your life even more wonderful? What are your good problems to have? How could you change your view of them? Consider re-orienting your imagination from the downside of success to the upside of opportunity. Another approach to the same issue could produce an eventual breakthrough for you.

Remember
Some problems are good to have.

Lions roll over Pope

By Mario Sarmento
SPORTS EDITOR

At practice last Monday, Olympic Heights coach Mitch Henghold spent a substantial amount of time working with his special teams on punt blocks, and getting them to “scoop and score” after the play was made.

Friday, that hard work paid off, when senior Steven Miles blocked a punt, and sophomore Julio Vasquez scooped the ball up and tiptoed down the sideline for a 14-yard touchdown that put Olympic Heights up 14-0 against Pope John Paul II.

The Lions would go on to a 27-0 win in their season debut.

“We worked it all week,” Henghold said. “We saw something on film we felt we could take advantage of. We were fortunate enough to do that. The kids told me all week that we were going to block a punt and we did.”

While the Lions special teams delivered the biggest blow of the game, it was the Olympic Heights defense that ultimately paved the way to victory.

Eagles quarterback Troy Leib had completed 22-of-32 passes for 250 yards and two TDs, and he ran for another in Pope’s season opening loss to Pine Crest.

Against the Lions however, Leib was pressured early and often, and he threw two key interceptions, the last of which led to a 27-yard TD run by David Kinne to make it 20-0 Heights. Leib also fumbled on the Lions’ 10-yardline after scrambling out of the pocket.

Leib didn’t get much help from his teammates, who dropped, by Coach Chris Kokell’s estimation, “almost 10 passes.”

“We’ve got a quarterback making his second regular season start,” Kokell said. “You give him 10 dropped passes ... that’s the third time Troy’s ever scrambled in his life because we don’t do it on practice. It’s on me. I’ve got to remember that because he hasn’t done it before.”

Leib completed 9-of-29 passes for 74 yards on the night.

When the Lions went ahead, they went almost exclusively to the running game to protect the lead.

Kinne gained 95 yards on eight carries, several of them coming on sweeps and trap plays that befuddled the Pope defense.

Antoine Kirkland ran for 72 yards on 21 carries, and he scored the Lions’ other two TDs.

AJ. Messina started for the Lions, but Cole MacDonald played the majority of the game and completed 3-of-7 passes for 37 yards.

Olympic Heights coach Mitch Henghold talks to his team after a 27-0 win at Pope John Paul II in the Lions’ season opener Friday.

The Lions (1-0) host John I. Leonard next week, while the Eagles (0-2) play at Boca Raton High.

Other scores were:

Atlantic 30, Palm Beach Lakes 7: Mark Leal threw for 162 yards and a TD, and ran for two other scores as the Eagles (2-0) routed the Rams.

Boca Raton 38, Santaluces 13: Bobcats quarterback Eddie Sullivan threw four TD passes and completed 15-of-23 passes for 201 yards. Terrell Williams caught six passes for 122 yards and a score for the Bobcats (1-0).

West Boca Raton 34, Wellington 14: Eric Schaefer intercepted three passes and returned one for a TD to lead the Bulls (2-0) to the victory.

Boca Raton Christian 25, Highlands Christian 7: Steve Smith ran for 94 yards on 14 carries and scored a TD for the Blazers (1-1).

Seminole Ridge 45, Spanish River 7: William Jones ran for 177 yards on 12 carries and a TD to lead the Hawks over the Sharks (0-2).

North Broward Prep 38, St. Andrew’s 0: Ben Dexter carried the ball five times for 20 yards and had eight tackles on defense, but the Scots (1-1) fell to the Eagles. Shane McHugh had an interception for Saint Andrew’s.

NEWS STAFF REPORTS

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Bob and Mike Bryan, world number one ranked men’s doubles tennis team, will join top American tennis star Andy Roddick for an afternoon of tennis at Boca Pointe Country Club, starting at 1 p.m.

On Saturday, Dec. 6, you can sit amongst Andy and his friends at the Andy Roddick Foundation’s intimate dinner gala taking place at the Polo Club Boca Raton.

Sunday’s event begins with nine people having the chance to play Pro-Am Doubles with some of the world’s top ranked tennis players. At 11:30 a.m. families can enjoy Andy’s signature free kid’s zone, which will include sumo-wrestling, a bounce house, a rock climbing wall, tennis activities, music and more. At 1 p.m. will be the Pro-Celebrity Tennis Exhibition, featuring Andy, Bob Bryan and Mike Bryan.

Immediately following the exhibition will be a chance to return Andy’s record-breaking 155 mph serve.

The tennis exhibition is priced as follows: Courtside tickets are $100 each; VIP Canopy tickets are $75 each; Reserved tickets are $50 each;

Andy Roddick

General Admission tickets are $25 each.

Children under age 12 are complimentary in the Reserved and General Admission sections only and receive a free gift when accompanied by a paid adult.

There is a $5 service fee on all tickets.

Advanced reservations for all events are required and seating is limited. Tickets will not be sold at the gate. These events take place rain or shine.

For more information visit the charity section at www.andyroddick.com.

To purchase tickets please contact the Andy Roddick Foundation at 561-620-9449.

Michigan State shuts out Owls

NEWS STAFF REPORTS

Javon Ringer ran for 282 yards and two TDs to lead Michigan State to a 17-0 win over FAU Saturday.

Rusty Smith was held to eight completions in 34 attempts for 143 yards in a steady downpour -- the worst start of his career.

The Owls (1-2) play at Minnesota this Saturday.

FAU soccer falls

The Eastern Michigan University women’s soccer team held off a late rally by host Florida Atlantic University Sunday, beating the Owls 2-1 and earning a split of its two-match weekend road trip through South Florida.

EMU (3-2-2), a member of the Mid-American Conference, was coming off a narrow 1-0 defeat at the hands of unbeaten University of Miami Friday night.

Florida Atlantic (1-3-0) got a goal from Ashley Mannarino’s with three minutes remaining.

FAU plays at Stetson University Friday, and at the University of South Florida Sunday, before Sun Belt Conference play begins with a home match against Western Kentucky University on Friday, Sept. 26.

Men fall in 2 OT

Florida Atlantic University men’s soccer team lost a double overtime thriller to Seattle University by a score of 2-1. Seattle University (5-1-0) struck first with a goal by Kyle Peterman in the 18th minute, but FAU’s Gianni Piccoletti responded just before half time with a successful penalty kick attempt.

The Owls and Redhawks battled back and forth but remained gridlocked for the 60 minutes with a score of 1-1.

Both squads had opportunities to gain the lead in the 2nd half and overtime, including a near miss by Darnell King in the first overtime. King’s shot barely got enough air under it to fly over the cross bar. However, with just 6:30 left before the game would be declared a tie after a second overtime, Redhawk Wesley Van Hooser tapped a ball into the back of the net.

Previously, FAU defeated Stetson University 1-0 Friday night. Freshman Rocco Pecora’s unassisted goal in the 55th minute was the difference in the close match. Pecora’s first goal of the season was a blast from 20 yards out.

FAU is 2-4-0 and will start Mid American Conference play Wednesday at the University of Buffalo.

Volleyball wins three of four

The Florida Atlantic University volleyball team split its two matches on the final day of the Air Force Invitational.

FAU swept North Carolina Central in its first match of the day, 25-15, 25-22, 25-10.

Morgan Johns ended the match with 19 kills, 10 digs and four service aces.

The Owls were defeated by the Kent State Golden Flashes in five sets in their final match of the tournament.

The previous day, FAU defeated Texas A&M-Corpus Christi 23-25, 20-25, 25-9, 25-17, 16-14.

FAU defeated Air Force 25-9, 20-25 25-22, 25-15, 15-12. Anne Vaughan had 12 kills in the match.

FAU (7-3) won three of its four matches on the weekend. The Owls return home next weekend when they face the University of Miami Saturday at 7 p.m. Live stats will be available via GameTracker at fausports.com.

Lynn women draw against Nova

Lynn University’s women’s soccer team ended its four-game losing streak to Nova Southeastern, but couldn’t pull away with a victory, drawing 1-1 with the Sharks.

Melissa Ortiz scored her team-leading eighth goal while recording her sixth consecutive game with at least two points. Lynn moves to 4-1-1 overall and 0-0-1 in the Sunshine State Conference.

Lynn returns to action Wednesday at 7 p.m. when it travels to face penultimate rival Barry University.

Lynn tops Clarion

A day after upsetting the 17th-ranked team in the nation, the Lynn University volleyball team closed out the Florida Southern South Region Crossover with a 3-1 (26-24, 21-25, 25-15, 25-16) victory over Clarion Saturday. The Fighting Knights improve to 5-6 on the season as they enter Sunshine State Conference play next weekend.

The Knights host Florida Tech Friday at 7 p.m. and welcome Rollins to Boca Raton Saturday at 4 p.m.
